MISS CLABAUGH PRESENTED TO THE FAMILY FRIENDS.

Other Sociabilities Yesterday - Marriage of an Admiral's Daughter This Month-Personal Notes

Mrs. Roosevelt will hold a public reception for ladies on Saturday, the 14th instant, from 3 to 5 o'clock. She will be assisted by the ladies of the cabinet and will have with her during the reception a number of young ladies, including those of the cabinet circle. Another charming addition to the debutante ranks was made vesterday in the person of Miss Helen Margaret Clabaugh, daughter of Justice Clabaugh of the District Supreme Court. Her debut tea was held at the residence of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Swope, on N street where the spacious rooms were, as is usual there on festive occasions, thronged by a notable company. Palms and roses added a pretty touch to each apartment, but the floral welcome extended the debutante in the way of bouquets would have been sufficient by itself. Mrs. Swope and Mrs. Clabaugh received with the debutante, Mrs. Clabuagh, sr., grandmother of the latter, being also in the family group. Miss Clabaugh wore white cloth with insertions of lace and carried pink roses. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. McKee, Miss Hawley, the Misses Lamberton, Miss Marion Wilson, with Miss Nevin and Miss Musser of Philadelphia and Miss Browne, Miss Stowe and Miss Clabaugh of Baltimore, made up the corps of hospitable assistants. An orchestra played throughout the reception, and in the dining room pink roses formed a beautiful centerpiece on a substantially provided refresh-Miss Cornelia Roosevelt Scovel, a first cousin of President Roosevelt, has arrived in New York from Europe with her mother, Mrs. Scovel, wife of the tenor. They will winter in New York, with the exception of the early part of January, which they expect to spend in this city. This interesting young relative of the chief executive says that her main purpose in crossing the ocean that her main purpose in crossing the ocean at this time was to assist at Miss Alice Roosevelt's debut, and yesterday displayed a renaissance lace dress which she intends to wear upon that occasion. Miss Scovel is young and pretty, and has had her soprano voice cultivated with great care, with a view to concert singing.

The marriage of Miss Rosina Mueller to Mr. Bertram F. Thornette took place at 7 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride, Miss Carrie Greenwell acting as bridesmaid and Mr. Charles Baxter best man. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride wore a traveling gown of new blue. The couple left immediately afterward for a short stay in Philadelphia and New York. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Thornette will reside at 1203 M street. Mrs. John Floyd Waggaman will not be

In celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding a reception was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pentland at their residence, 1330 18th street. A large number of friends availed themselves of the opportunity to offer their good wishes. Upon this rather notable occasion many tokens of esteem and regard were re-ceived from the circle of relatives and ac-quaintances and in addition the couple had etters from those unable to be present, ex-tending their congratulations. Relatives from Pittsburg and elsewhere came to the city especially for the occasion. Among these were Mr. A. W. Black of New York, Gilbert M. Black, Samuel W. Black and Mrs. William P. Snyder of Pittsburg and Mrs. and Mrs. Lemes E. Burr of Carbondele Mr. and Mrs. James E. Burr of Carbondale, Golden crysanthemums gave the prevailing tone to the handsome decorations of the house. The children, as well as the grand-children of the couple, were all present, and the former assisted in receiving the guests. Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Hamlin were also of the receiving party.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Brumagine, 212 4th street outheast, Miss Belle Mount and Mr. James Southeast, Miss Belle Mount and Mr. James Vandenburg were quietly married by Rev. a severe attack of bronchitis, and there-fore regrets that she will be unable to see her friends tomorrow afternoon.

THE WORLD OF SOCIETY THE "ADAMS MIRROR"

IT WILL BE REPLACED IN THE

Has Had Many Vicia-

situdes.

Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the Senate, has given instructions for replacing the "Adams mirror" in the room of the president of the Senate. This mirror has a history. It was purchased by John Adams when Vice President and has reflected the countenance of every Vice President of the United States except that of Mr. Roosevelt, and it falled to perform that service because during his short service as the president of the Senate the looking glass was in retirement, having been removed from the room to make way for its modern fittings. Though it had to give way for greater elegance, the old mirror was at one time regarded as a piece of unwarranted extravagance on the part of Vice President Adams. Mr Adams selected the mirror himself and paid for it the sum of $40. It was purchased in New York and removed here in 1800.

Considered Extravagant. The bill had to be paid from the coningent fund of the Senate, and when that body learned that $40 had actually been expended for a single mirror there was a burst of severe criticism on the part of the economists. Mr. Adams had to listen to speeches denouncing his extravagance, and while the bill was finally approved, it was done in such a way as to effectually call a halt to repetitions of such reckless proceedings. But from that time on the Adams mirror became an object of great interest. It was retained in the room of the Vice President and when the Capitol was enlarged it was removed to its more elegant quarters in the marble north wing of the building. It had been pointed out as an example of magnificence and extrav-agance to be avoided by all sober-minded people. As time wore on and the products of wealth became more common, the mirror by comparison lost cast as an example of elegance, but immediately took on another feature of interest.

Pointed Out to Visitors.

It became an example of what had been elegant and extravagant at one time, and thousands of visitors from all over the world have been shown the mirror and told the story of Vice President Adams' difficulty because of his purchase of it. All this time the room of the president of the Senate was increasing in elegance. The mirror, while cherished for its historic interest, looked a little plain. It has never lost its simple elegance, but it was not in keeping with its surroundings. It had the experience of the heirlooms of the family that rises in wealth. As they have trav-eled from parlor to sitting room, then from bed room to garret, so the mirror was placed in an offset or closet which contains the stationary washstand that was many years ago introduced in the Vice President's room. But it was still where it could be pointed out to visitors, while not jarring on the nice taste of those who don't like to see an old thing like that marring the effect of elegant furniture and hangings. Then three years ago the Vice President's room was fitted up in a form of elegance never before equaled.

Sent to a Storeroom. Even the closet was fixed up so finely that the Adams mirror was out of place, and the historic relic was actually removed and sent to a storeroom. It was not placed with old furniture, however, but Assistant Architect Woods hung it in his office There it was discovered by Mr. Charles Moore, who appreciated its value and had a shelf put up on the wall of the room of the Senate committee on the District of Columbia so that the mirror might be kept in view until its restoration. Just as the Bates was eighty-four years old and is old-fashloned mahogany table is hauled out survived by her husband, who is ninety of the garret and placed in the middle of of the garret and placed in the middle of the parlor after having been put in retirement by the pressure of some passing fancy in housefurnishing, so the Adams mirror has again been appreciated.

When Senator Frye lately learned that the old relic had been in exile he was indignant. Senator Hoar called it nothing less than vandalism to so treat it. An order has been given for its removal to the Vice President's room-not to its neglected corner in the lavatory, but where it will be henceforth one of the most conspicuous objects in that splendid apart-ment. Some time when President Roosevelt it at the Capitol he will be asked to look into the Adams mirror. He can never look Into it as Vice President, for his advance-ment has broken the record of the mirror as a reflector of all the presiding officers of the Senate. But he will look in it as President of the United States, and the story of the glass will be made that much more interesting. SHERIFF GOES TAX COLLECTING. Rides in Van and Takes Furniture in

The sheriff's first stop was at the mansion of Mrs. E. H. Holmes, probably the most sightly in the city, the owner of which is reputed to be worth $500,000. Mrs. Holmes was out calling, so a $600 plane was attached in lieu of $60 uncollectable taxes. The next stopping place was the house of George W. Blake, ex-chairman of the populist state central committee. Then the van moved on the business district. Its occupants invaded the law office of W. S. Summers, United States district attorney for Nebraska, and the sheriff levied on his library. A friend notified Mr. Summers, who was in Omaha, by telephone, and on his promise to pay a delinquency of $75 within twenty-four hours his books were

The garrison numbers about 6,000 persons, making the population of the rock is about 25,000. The soldiers are, for the most part, regulars brought home from foreign service for rest and recuperation. The governor of the rock brought home from foreign service for rest and recuperation. The governor of the rock lives in the government house, formerly an old convent. Everything is done by military rule; the hours of the day are announced by gun fire, the morning gun followed by the bugle reveille wakens the inhabitants from their slumbers, and the bugle blast that follows the evening gun, telling the soldiers to turn in, has become a signal for the civilians to go home and go to bed. The average daily number entering the garrison for the purpose of trading and of bringing in supplies is 30,000, the great proportion of these daily visitors being Spaniards.

large Display of Christmas Goods at Palais Royal. The season of good cheer is on in earnes at the Palais Royal. This great emporiur is stocked from basement to garret with goods that appeal particularly to Christmas shoppers. The possibly noticeable absence of toys this year is made up with a vast assortment of dolls, books and pictures.

But, of course, there are toys in profusion, for that is a necessary adjunct to Christmas time. The picture gallery on the fourth floor will be an agreeable surprise to those who do not expect to find merit outside of an art store. Here are to be found from $5 to $20 pictures that may well be classed as works of art. Books are to be found in such quantities and variety that every want may be supplied at prices ridiculously low. Without dcubt the assortment of dolls is one of the finest ever presented in Washington. The jewelry department is particularly attractive. There is everything that might appeal to persons desiring to make gifts. The management of the Palais Royal has striven to supply presents that shall be appro-priate. Umbrellas that can be engraved with initials or name, pocketbooks on which a name can be stamped or engraved, are in good demand this year, and there is a fine assortment from which to select. The basement floor is a revelation to pur-chasers. Bric-a-brac, clocks, cut glass, rich china and a thousand and one attractions for the home are displayed. On the second for the home are displayed. On the second floor are the finest of silks put up in waist or dress patterns, in box with Christmas card. Here, too, are rich comforts, blankets and table linens suitable for presents. Furs, wrappers and other ready wear garments are attractively displayed on the third floor. The fourth floor is devoted to furniture, and there is everything that would go to beautify a home and make a pleasurable holiday present. pleasurable holiday present.

Lecture by Ernest Seton-Thompson.

There is probably no student of natural history in this country today who is as charming in his writings and lectures as Children and grown people allke unite in the expression of appreciation of his stories of the wild animals. In his lectures he is unlike any other speaker on a lyceum platform by reason of the fresh, breezy manner in which he presents his stories-for stories they are, told in a simple, straightforward manner, without the slightest attempt at dramatic effect, but which, none the less, transport the hearers into the forests and the haunts of wild animals and show them the joys of hunting with the camera instead of the row afternoon at the First Congregational Church at 4:15 o'clock for the benefit of tend the evening lecture. His evening lecture at the same place at 8 o'clock will be the second of the star course of the Young Men's Christian Association. Both of these lectures will be beautifully illustrated by stereopticon views. The lecture in the afternoon will be entitled "Wild Animals I Have Known." The lecture in the evening will be entitled "The Personality of Wild Animals."

A petition for alimony has been filed in the District Supreme Court by Margaret A. Lesh, through her attorney, Thomas J. Mackey against William W. Lesh. The couple were married July 6, 1897, and the petition alleges the defendant deserted his wife April 16, 1900, and since then has not contributed to her support. In asking for alimony, the petitioner says her husband receives $1,400 salary, as a government clerk and a pension of $72 per month, out of
